

ENGINEERS TO TALK ECONOMIC POLICIES

American Society Meets in
New York December 4 With Varied Program.

The annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the biggest of the national engineering gatherings of 1922, will be held in the Engineering Societies Building December 4 to 7, it was announced yesterday. At that time John L. Harrington of Kansas City will succeed Dean Dexter S. Kimball of Cornell as president of the society.

A feature of the meeting, which is expected to attract engineers, manufacturers, economists, educators and industrialists from all over the country, will be joint sessions with the American Economic Association, the American Society of Safety Engineers, the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers and the American Engineering Standards Committee.

L. P. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad Company, and E. M. Herr, president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, will be among the speakers at the economic forum, at which addresses also will be delivered by W. C. Mitchell, chief of the National Bureau of Economic Research and professor of economics at Columbia University, Prof. H. R. Seager of the University of Chicago, president of the American Economic Association, and Dean Kimball. Mr. Herr's topic will be "The Human Problem in Industry."

Prof. Mitchell will discuss "Making Money and Making Good." The sessions of the professional divisions of the society will cover a wide range of industrial and technical progress, including development in aeronautics. Orville H. Wright is a member of the aeronautics division. Other professional divisions to meet include those devoted to fuel, management, forest products, ordnance, railroads, textiles, gas power, machine shop practice and materials handling. The ordnance division is working with the army authorities to produce better ordnance and eliminate defects revealed by the war.

Education, described as a question of increasing interest in the engineering profession, will be one of the big features of the meeting, to which representatives from practically all the leading universities and technical schools will come. Notable among the reports to be presented will be that by the Committee on Training for the Industries.

Elections of executive committees were announced at the national headquarters of the society here yesterday. The new chairman are: Aeronautics Division, Major Thurman H. Bane, United States Air Service, Dayton, Ohio; Forest Products Division, Thomas D. Perry, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Fuel Division, Prof. L. P. Breckenridge, Yale University; Gas Power Division, Van H. Manning, director of technical research, American Petroleum Institute, New York; Machine Shop Division, F. O. Hoiland, Worcester, Mass.; Management Division, R. A. Wentworth, Long Island City, N. Y.; Materials Handling, H. V. Coe, Philadelphia, Pa.; Ordnance Division, Waldo H. Marshall, New York City; Power, John H. Lawrence, New York City; Railroad Division, James Partington, New York City; Safety Division, Charles T. Plunkett, Adams, Mass.

Daily Calendar THE WEATHER.

For Eastern New York—Fair to-day and to-morrow; moderate temperature; fresh northwest and shifting to north-east winds.
For Northern New England—Fair to-day and to-morrow; little change in temperature; fresh northwest winds.
For Southern New England—Fair to-day and to-morrow; little change in temperature; fresh northwest shifting to northeast winds.
For Western New York—Fair to-day; to-morrow increasing cloudiness and warmer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Pressure was abnormally low to-night between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains and the lowest barometer reading was 29.4 inches at Pueblo, Col. Pressure has remained low over the Canadian maritime provinces and the Gulf of Mexico and it was relatively high over the North Pacific States and from Hudson Bay southward over the Lake Region. The temperature was higher to-day in the Atlantic States south of Maryland and the weather remained unusually warm throughout the great central valley.

The weather will remain generally fair to-morrow and Monday in the Atlantic and east Gulf States, Tennessee, the Ohio valley and the lower Lake Region, except that showery weather will continue in Florida. Showers are also probable in Ohio and the western portions of Kentucky and Tennessee by Monday night. There will be little change in the temperature east of the Mississippi River during the next two days.
